To Whom It May Concern,

I have been a cyclist in London since 1981. Cycling on any of the main North -South or East - West routes has steadily become more of a challenge and a hazard. Heavier traffic, soft, narrow shoulders and a lack of bike lanes or payways put cyclists in harms way daily. If we hope to promote healthy active living, then we need a committee with experience and knowledge to assist in the futre plans for this city's alternative transportation routes.

I ask that the Cycling Advisory Committee be endorsed and brought to council.

Thank you,
Shelley Steel
