round: why a "Community Economic Road Map?"

ne 2013: City Council directed that a review be undertaken to identify opportunities to enhance the delivery a ordination of economic development services and activities.

ne 2014: KPMG, the consultant engaged to conduct the review, presented its findings to the Strategic Prioritie licy Standing Committee of Council.

MG concluded that "effective economic development organizations/models tend to be guided by a y/Community strategic plan or economic strategy that outlines the community's economic strengths, the stra ous for its economic prosperity plan and the general strategies it will pursue to achieve its objectives."

MG effectively endorsed the continuance and effectiveness of the London Economic Development Corporation (DC).

rst of six recommendations of the KPMG report was to develop a broad an inclusive community economic gic plan, which would provide the appropriate level of consultation and be based upon an objective, data-dri sment of the local economy.

irect response, the City undertook a competitive process to hire an expert consultant to help lead the opment of the proposed strategy/road map.

evaluation team assessed all received proposals in accordance with the evaluation criteria prepared on a "beue" basis.

- More specifically, factors taken into account were based on: qualifications, project management approduce data analysis and cost.
- quently, Millier Dickinson Blais (MDB) was the selected expert consulting firm.
