Good afternoon. If possible could the follow letter be added to the agenda for tomorrows council meeting. it concerns the food truck issue. Thank you

The recent draft proposal calls for the introduction of eight food trucks for London. The one concern that many restaurants and retailers have is a concentration of trucks in one area of the city. We feel a simple solution for all would be to divide the city into zones with the trucks put on a rotating schedule so there is constant variety offered throughout the city without too much concentration in one area at one time. The restaurant industry has indicated this would be satisfactory to them and if this small amendment can be arranged by city staff, the food truck program can move ahead very quickly.
