

Committee: London Advisory Committee on Heritage

Organization/Sector represented: N/A

Name: Brian Gibson

Address:

197 Merlin Crescent
London, ON N5W 5A2

Occupation: CAD Technician

Work experience: I work for a company in Milton, primarily from my home in London. I produce CAD drawings for hydro utilities across the province, including new builds, conduit revision/repair, schematics and pole standards, in 2D and 3D. I work with my department team as well as clients juggling multiple projects simultaneously. In college I worked for the City of Mississauga's forestry department, the Royal Botanical Gardens and the Ministry of Transportation during co-op placements, and my first job after college was working a one-year contract with London Hydro. After working for London Hydro, I became self-employed working as an associate of my current employer, until I was hired by them November 2013.

Education: I have a Bachelor of Applied Arts in Integrated Land Planning Technology from Fanshawe College London. The degree is a mixture of professional disciplines including land planning, planning technology including CAD and GIS, architecture and landscape architecture/urban forestry.

Skills: I believe that my education as well as person interests will help me assist this body. I care deeply about history and preserving cultures for future generations, and planning issues in London in general. I hope that by serving with this body that I may grow my knowledge of the work they do and in turn better serve the board as a knowledgeable member.

Interest reason: As said above, I care deeply about history and preserving cultures for future generations. I currently follow the LACH meetings and agendas closely and take a great interest in planning and municipal issues.

Contributions: I would bring past experience from serving with boards as well as planning knowledge to this board, a good disposition and a strong interest in learning more.

Community and our city mean a great deal to me, I want to do what I can to do make our city even better.

Past contributions: I am a past member of the Argyle Community Association board and the Strengthening Neighbourhoods Steering Committee – Argyle board, I have also served on the board of a federal party in the London-Fanshawe riding.

Interpersonal: In my workplace I meet with many different departments inside my office as well as clients from hydro utilities across the province, often with competing perspectives and project timelines. I coordinate with my department to ensure that our work moves forward smoothly and projects are delivered on time and to quality expectations. I also work directly with clients, and make sure to listen attentively and actively to make sure that I understand needs and expectations, and ask questions if any clarification is needed. I enjoy working with others, sharing my perspective and listening to others'. I want to share what I know while working to always expand my knowledge and understanding.

Interview interest: Yes
