Hi, I am unable to attend any of the sessions. But for it's worth, my feelings are to leave voting the way it is, The person who gets the most votes win's Sometimes there are so many candidates running, surely this is what split's the vote & the candidate that wins may only have gotten a small % of the total votes The person I voted for fed. prov. munic. might not win, but @ least I voted.& the candidate that wins got the most votes even though it might not be the majority for that riding.
