Name: Wendy Moore

105 Langarth St. W London, ON

Work experience: I worked in the pet industry in London many years ago. My true occupation is as a marketing consultant and copywriter but my experience with animals, outside of my occupation, is extensive.

Education: My education includes a diploma in animal care and a certificate in small animal nutrition.

Skills: I have been caregiver for a wide variety of pets as well as wild animals over the years. I have worked in London's pet industry, have rescued and fostered abandoned animals.

Interest reason: I think it's important to have a strong and clear guidebook for the city's animals as well as making sure it is possible to enforce. My experience on both sides of the topic - working in the pet industry and well as being a caregiver would allow me to share experiences and opinions that benefit both development of guidelines and how to enforce them.

Interpersonal: I have worked in corporations where this is a requirement in all communications.
